Mental Health Support for Fathers

Strengthening families one Father at a time

Support for Fathers

The West London NHS Perinatal Mental Health team has partnered with HFEH Mind to deliver a wellbeing service for fathers.

We want to support fathers to have the best relationships they can with their families.

Why we are supporting Fathers

- Fathers may appreciate having someone to talk to, in a 1:1 setting and/or group of other fathers
- Fathers and their families can learn more about their role and how crucial they are in their baby's development
- There are other challenges that families face, such as financial and housing issues, that we can support with, along with other services
- We know that fathers are often worried about the mother, and we can support you to understand and manage this unfamiliar environment
- Becoming a new father, especially when your partner is unwell, can be an extremely stressful period of transition, and we are here to help navigate your journey
